

Ring Out!

A History of Handbell Festivals in the WELS

The purpose of WELS Handbell Festivals is to worship the Lord through the musical medium of handbells. Festivals allow ringers and directors to experience a special bond of Christian fellowship through working together with others.

Beginnings—1970s-1985

Handbells have been used in American churches since the early 1900s. It was not until the 1970s that the first handbell choirs were formed in the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod (WELS).

The first congregations with handbell choirs were Emanuel, St. Paul, MN; St. James, West St. Paul, MN; and Siloah, Milwaukee, WI. Wayne Wagner, a former teacher at Emanuel, began a bell choir at Dr. Martin Luther College (DMLC), New Ulm, MN soon after he was called there.

Siloah used their handbell choir as a goodwill ambassador. Directed by Pastor Rolfe Westendorf, the Siloah choir rang in other WELS congregations. In search of audiences for the handbell choir, Pastor Westendorf turned to DMLC for help. DMLC readily extended an invitation and the Siloah choir made plans for a trip to Minnesota. In arranging the tour itinerary, Pastor Westendorf contacted Pastor Stadler at St. James who welcomed Siloah's visit, as did Emanuel.

On May 13, 1979, Pastor Stadler gathered and informally introduced the handbell choirs from three WELS congregations—Siloah, Emanuel, and St. James. He jokingly announced that this was the first nation-wide WELS Handbell Festival. Little did he realize that he had planted the idea. The following year, the first organized WELS Handbell Festival was held.

In 1980, there were at least 10 WELS congregations and schools with handbell choirs. On May 4, 1980, five of these choirs assembled at Siloah for the first WELS Handbell Festival. At this festival and for the next three years, festivals were held in churches. The format for these festivals was a worship service with mass ringing on a few hymns and a piece or two.

With the growth in popularity of these festivals, it became impossible to hold them in a church. Festivals moved to gymnasiums.

1986-1994

A major change in format came with the 1986 festival. There were now 33 congregations and schools with handbell choirs. Concerts would be too long if each individual choir rang their own piece. Also, the sound of one bell choir could get lost in a large gymnasium. So, in 1986, the entire concert was changed to mass ringing. The participants chose to ring with either the Jubilate or Exaltate sectional choir. Each sectional choir rang three pieces. In addition, all the choirs rang seven selections en masse. With this format, there was more music to prepare.

1988 Wisconsin Lutheran High School, Milwaukee, WI

Lina Schaal & Richard Lehmann—19 congregations

As the growth of congregations with handbells and festival participants continued, it was decided to hold alternately regional and national festivals. Two regions were established, East and West, divided approximately by the Mississippi River. More than 50 WELS congregations were known to have handbell choirs.

The need for continuity and better organization with written policies of festival guidelines prompted a committee to be named at the 1994 festival. Cheryl Diener was asked to chair the committee. Gwen Tjernagel and Timothy Russow were also named to the committee. This committee was asked to plan both regional festivals for 1995. The same music was chosen for both regional festivals. Two sectional choirs were used—Laudate and Exaltate.

The WELS Handbell Festival Committee presented their written proposals at the 1995 Directors Meetings.

At the 1996 Directors Meeting, the proposals were accepted. Three regions—Northeast, Southeast, and Western—were formed. National festivals would now be held once every three years. Cheryl Diener was elected the national chairperson. Each region selected a representative. The chairperson and regional representatives form the WELS Handbell Festival Committee.

89 WELS congregations are known to have handbell choirs.
